A. INTRODUCTION

The School and Centre for the Hearing Handicapped Children (SCCHC) a unit of the Society for the welfare of the Disabled (SWD) which is a non-profit, secular organization catering to the needs of those with hearing impairment, is a recognized school.

A unit of the Society for the welfare of the Disabled(SWD), the School and Centre for The Hearing Handicapped Children(SCHHC), was founded by a group of like-minded people whose intense desire and commitment to alleviate the suffering and deprivation of children afflicted with various forms of disability brought them together irrespective of their religious beliefs to work towards the common goal. Thus inspired they formed the SWD and registered themselves under the Meghalaya Societies Registration Act XII of 1983 NO. SR/ TSFTWOTD-255/90 of 1990 FCRA No: 214250083.

In the beginning the school started for the lower primary and upper primary section but soon proceeded to the secondary level. Provisional Recognition was also awarded in 2011 by the Meghalaya Board of school Education. However as the years passed by the school faced great difficulty in catering to the needs of Class IX and X students who as time went on were few in numbers. The society therefore took a step in assessing the students who were capable of appearing the Board examination and sent them to Jyoti Shroat Inclusive School, Bethany Society to study and appear the Board Examination. Others who faced difficulty were given the option to opt for either National Institute Open School or Vocational Training at Roilang, Bethany Society. The school is now continuing up to the upper primary level (Class VIII).

SCHHC has qualified trained Special Educators, Ear-mould Technician, Computer teacher and Sign language specialist to teach the ever growing demand of the students with hearing impairment, in the school.

Special Education is imparted to the children with Speech and Hearing Impairment of various types and degrees, through self-help skills such as language training, Speech reading and sign language. In our endeavour to keep the parents of the children informed and to educate and counsel them on ways and means of communicating with their children, parents are encouraged to spend some days in the class along with their child so that they learn the procedures being followed at school. Home visits are part and parcel of the education imparted at SCHHC and depending on the findings of the visit conducted, appropriate remedial measures are adopted.

Apart from its mean objective of imparting education to children with hearing impairment, the school also aims at their rehabilitation and their integration in family and society through the teaching of functional communication skills. The school strongly believes that even these children with Speech and Hearing Impairment are not a liability but rather they are an asset for the society.

B. VISION :- We dream of an inclusive barrier-free rights-based society where people with Speech and Hearing Impairment can live with dignity and understanding.

The school has a team of dedicated staff and teachers, qualified and trained Special Educators, Ear-mould Technician and Sign Language Specialist. With this, the school is making every effort in imparting quality education to the children with Speech and Hearing Impairment of various types and degrees. Every possible method is used to help these children learn, through self-help skills such as language training speech therapy, Speech reading and sign language. The ISL and Total Communication is used to communicate with the children.

In our endeavour to keep the parents of the children informed, become involve, and to educate and counsel them on ways and means of communicating with their children, parents are encouraged to spend some days in the class along with their child so that they learn the procedures being followed at school and thus be in a better position to help and communicate with their children at home.
Home visits are part and parcel of the education imparted at SCCHC and depending on the findings of the visit conducted, appropriate remedial measures are adopted.

Apart from its main objective of imparting quality academic education to children with hearing impairment by bringing out the best in them through activity oriented learning for inclusive education, the school also aims at their rehabilitation and their integration in vocational training as well through the teaching of functional communication skills. The school strongly believes that even these children with Speech and Hearing Impairment are not a liability but rather they are an asset for the society. In fact if all persons are given equal and fair opportunities every individual, regardless of their physical state, can play a meaningful role in society.

The academic year is divided in two terms which is usually in the month of June and November. At the end of each term the students’ performance record which is also based on the continuous daily assessment by their teachers, is provided to the parents and guardians of the child so as to enable them to know of their progress and thus follow up at home with their children.

K. Gratitude:-

- The School and Centre for the Hearing Handicapped Children is indeed indebted to all who have contributed in any way to the success achieved during the year 2013.

- Thanks to many friends and visitors, who have supported individual students or the institutions financially, and who wish to remain anonymous.

- Thanks to the Society for the Welfare of the Disabled (SWD) AND ITS Executive Body for its unflinching support and concern.

- Thanks to the Managing Committee members for its cooperation and team spirit. Dear Members, we look forward to your innovative ideas and cooperation.
Thanks to the Bethany Society, without whom we would not have a building to rent, buses to pick up and drop our children. For the hostel accommodation which shelters a large number of our children and for those who take good care of our children in the hostel. For an Audiology room and furniture for the School.

Thanks to the Department of the Social Welfare, Government of Meghalaya for the courtesy and cooperation of its officers. Their courtesy, support and cooperation have steered and sustained us through many hardships.

Thanks to the Ministry of Social Justice and Empowerment, New Delhi which has afforded us a place under its umbrella.

Thanks to the dedicated team of staff for their love to the children to whom they minister with joy, concern, cheerfulness and selflessness diffused an air of peace and happiness all around so that not only the children themselves but those who visit our centre comment on and are affected by it.

Conclusion:

In review, the year 2013 has been a good one for all of us. The school has run smoothly, academic courses have been covered, no forms of serious illness have interrupted the children’s normal day-to-day routine and a spirit of unity, happiness and cooperation has bonged together parents, students and staff. This does not imply, however, that it has all plain sailing and that we have not had to cope with our usual share of difficulties.
